

A Friend of EUYO is a Friend for Life!

"I feel passionately that great music offers solace, spirituality and solidarity, especially while more material matters are now occupying our lives today.

This is a new global age, which brings us new opportunities to celebrate the European Union's policy of building closer ties and cementing relations beyond trade and commerce using music as the powerful unifying force.

We should reflect on the great importance of culture, international understanding and cross-border cooperation, which I believe are essential to create a peaceful and healthy world."

Joy Bryer's vision lives on day by day. It's in our musicians, guest artists, tutors, staff, and everybody belonging to EUYO.

It runs throughout our shared projects in Europe and beyond, building bridges between cultures and countries through the universal language of music.

It flourishes in the communities we visit, touring the world - and underpins the programmes we build for our young artists' professional development.

Everywhere we go, we plant a seed and help it grow. That's what friends are for.

"EUYO for me is...a family. It always has been, and I think it will be forever. I found friends and colleagues who made me feel welcome – and who also understood me, also during difficult times."

Agnese Lecchi (Italy, Flute)

We strive to create maximum opportunity for our young musicians, each of whom have won a place in stiff competition with more than 3000 others throughout Europe every year. We give them world-class tuition, invite internationally famous conductors and guest artists, and perform in the finest music venues throughout Europe and beyond.

As well as our large-scale symphony orchestra tours, our activities include our Music Medicine research and wellbeing activities, our Café Bauhaus innovation and sustainability awards, the Frontrunners online professional development series, and Mobile Music Hub Europe bringing music to broader, more diverse, and often less privileged audiences.

Help us tread a peaceful, healthy, better way. Join the EUYO Friends Programme!

"We'll be spreading messages of sustainability, democracy, livability, friendship, ideals, all through music. If I was asked to devise a project with real meaning and beauty and joy, it would be this. To be asked, it was really special. It's not just another tour. Far from that."

Daniel Rowland (Guest Soloist & Director)

Developing, learning, growing, changing: this is how we do Europe.

Come along with us. Become an EUYO Friend.

"Throughout the years, EUYO has taught me about friendship, connecting and communicating with people. It has also taught me about professionalism: from being on time to rehearsals, to knowing how rehearsals work...I have picked up so much information and it just has taught me a lot, which I am forever grateful for."
