United Technologies

Welcome

The months and weeks of build up to a major six week concert tour are a complex yet exhilarating experience. The sheer volume of tasks – from international travel plans for hundreds of young musicians from over 30 countries to providing for the needs of a global audience of thousands – appear as a series of almost impenetrable hurdles. Until the dust begins to settle, and the prospect of great music played by some of today’s most polished young performers under the leadership of inspirational conductors becomes increasingly present on the horizon.

As we all know, Europe faces some particularly tough times at the moment. All the more reason then to trumpet the unifying diversity at the heart of the EUYO, in an orchestra that shows us a tangible route for how we should live as Europeans, with young musicians from 28 EU countries working together, harmoniously, yet with limitless energy, aspiration and excellence.

As the CEO of an orchestra such as this I can only help create success by mirroring the shared leadership at the heart of the EUYO and its performances. And in this case I should point to two recent developments – on and off the stage – that beautifully encapsulate that attribute. In June we announced Vasily Petrenko as our new Chief Conductor and Bernard Haitink as our new Conductor Laureate, opening up a new chapter of development for the EUYO following on from the successes of our previous Music Director Vladimir Ashkenazy. And more quietly, but no less usefully, we formed an Orchestra Board to help guide the course of the Orchestra into that future. Overleaf you can read more about the new Board. Meanwhile, in the spirit of being together that is an EUYO speciality: Welcome!

The Orchestra Board

The European Union Youth Orchestra is in a period of significant development, as is evidenced by its recent announcement of a new Chief Conductor and Conductor Laureate, and by the activities of its new 'Towards 2020' international partnership project co-funded by the European Union's Creative Europe programme. At its heart however, there remains an unchanged, almost forty year old tradition and vision: an orchestra of young people from across the EU performing at the highest levels of excellence under the direction of inspirational world class conductors.

To help take forward this vision, the Trustees of the EUYO recently appointed a new Orchestra Board. The Orchestra Board brings together leading and experienced figures in the world of music and the arts to oversee the artistic and strategic development of the Orchestra. It is chaired by Ian Stoutzker, an individual with an enviable experience of chairing world class orchestras, and is currently composed of three further EUYO Trustees, together with the Orchestra's CEO.

The context for the Orchestra Board's work is the inspiration and commitment of the Orchestra's founders: Joy and Lionel Bryer, founding Music Director Claudio Abbado, and the then UK Prime Minister Sir Edward Heath. Building on their achievements, the Board is helping to develop the EUYO's European credentials and to broaden the scope of its activities, ensuring the highest levels of performance, and thus enabling it to continue to act as a beacon and example of what can be achieved by European endeavour.

Ian Stoutzker CBE

Orchestra Board Chair, Trustee, Co-Chair

Ian Stoutzker studied the violin at the Royal College of Music. After graduation he opted to pursue a business career. In 1977, together with Yehudi Menuhin, he founded Live Music Now, a pioneering charity formed with the double purpose of bringing music to the disadvantaged in homes for children with special needs. Ian Stoutzker remains the active Chairman of Live Music Now. Ian was Chairman of the Philharmonia Orchestra and subsequently, Chairman of the Advisory Council of the London Symphony Orchestra, a position that he held for over 15 years. Ian Stoutzker is known internationally for his active support of music and his philanthropy, and is a Fellow of the Royal College of Music, the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal Welsh College of Music and Drama. In 2012 Ian Stoutzker was awarded the CBE for Services to the Arts by her Majesty the Queen, and last year received the Prince of Wales Medal for Philanthropy.

Sir John Tusa

Trustee, Co-Chair

Sir John Tusa became a Trustee of the EUYO in 2014 and co-chairman with Ian Stoutzker later that year. He was Managing Director, BBC World Service from 1986–92; Managing Director of the Barbican Centre, London from 1995–2007; Chairman of the University of the Arts London from 2007–13; and Chair of the Clore Leadership Programme from 2008–14. Before that John Tusa sat on the Boards of the National Portrait Gallery, the British Museum, the English National Opera, the Design Museum and Wigmore Hall.

John Tusa has published books on broadcasting and written three books on the Arts: "Art Matters", "Engaged with the Arts" and "Pain in the Arts." He is a frequent broadcaster and contributor to conferences on arts and culture. At present he Chairs the British Architectural Trust Board and is a Trustee of the Turquoise Mountain Foundation.

Anthony Sargent CBE

After studying Politics, Philosophy and Economics at Oxford, Anthony spent 13 years in radio and TV production and presentation at the BBC, finally as Head of Planning for the BBC Proms and the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He then worked as Artistic Projects Director at London's Southbank Centre before becoming Head of Arts for Birmingham City Council (responsible for creating, then implementing the city's Arts Strategy, and for such major projects as the 10-year Festival of the 20thC, Towards the Millennium), before rejoining the BBC in the management of the nationwide Millennium Music Live festival. In 2000 he became Founding General Director of Sage Gateshead – Norman Foster's visionary international centre for music and musical discovery. In 2015, Anthony stood down from this position and as of May 2015 became the new CEO of the Luminato Festival, Toronto, Canada.

A Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, in 2008 (jointly with football legend Sir Bobby Robson) he won the Hotspur Award, given for outstanding contribution to the development of North East England.

Martijn Sanders

Born in 1945, Martijn Sanders completed a degree in Sociology (Business Administration) at Nederlands Economisch Hogeschool in Rotterdam, before going on to earn his MBA from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor in 1972. All this with the aim to use his education to work in the arts sector. He worked for 10 years at the regional cinema chain Jogchem's Theaters, initially in Amersfoort and later in Bunschoten. When he left the company in 1982, it had become one of the largest cinema chains in the Netherlands.

In March 1982, he was appointed Director of the Amsterdam Concertgebouw. During his tenure there, he supervised the full renovation of the concert hall and introduced an all-new programme. Under Martijn's directorship, the Concertgebouw became the best-attended classical music venue in the world.

In 2006, he left the Concertgebouw to devote himself to his numerous national and international management and supervisory board memberships and advisory roles. He is also engaged in consultancy projects for cultural management and policy.

Marshall Marcus

Marshall is the EUYO's CEO, President of Sistema Europe and a member of the British Council's Arts and Creative Economy Advisory Group. Since beginning violin lessons in 1963 he has spent much of his life in music, including membership of the BBC Symphony Orchestra, co-founder, CEO and Chair of the Orchestra of the Age of Enlightenment, and Head of Music at London's Southbank Centre where he oversaw one of the world's largest music programmes. He was a professor within El Sistema in Venezuela in 1979, teaching extensively in the country, and forming a new orchestra there at the request of Maestro José Antonio Abreu.

A graduate of Oxford and Cambridge universities in philosophy, experimental psychology and education, Associate of the Royal College of Music, in an eclectic career he has performed in over 60 countries with musicians as varied as Sir Simon Rattle, Baaba Maal and the Moscow Soloists. His blog at marshallmarcus.wordpress.com has been accessed by people in more than 120 countries.

Messages of Support

It is a pleasure to return with words of support to the European Union Youth Orchestra because its work means a lot to the European Union project and to me personally.

The European Union Youth Orchestra and the European Union share a fundamental characteristic: both attract people who expand their boundaries and build bridges.

The European project is essentially about advancing a web of shared interests backed up by common institutions to prevent war and anchor peace on our continent.

The European Union Youth Orchestra project is about nurturing lasting harmonious bonds by exploring the rich culture and diversity of Europe and by bringing together talented young artists, from all across Europe and beyond, to tap the power of creative exchange.

The Youth Orchestra offers them the opportunity to realise their full potential and to share their passion for music.

Success for all of us depends on whether each individual is offered such an opportunity to realise his or her dreams: this is the fundamental objective that we share and are striving for.

I wish every success to the 2015 European Union Youth Orchestra Summer Tour.

Jean-Claude Juncker

President of the European Commission,
Head of the EUYO's Honorary Patrons

The European Union Youth Orchestra is not simply an ensemble of talented and young musicians; it is also a carrier of a powerful message of unity, of merit and of hope.

Watching and listening to these young musicians from all over Europe playing together leaves a lasting impression – for the listeners as much as for the performers. I vividly remember their performance for the commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the fall of the Berlin Wall.

I was moved not simply by the beauty of the music they produced, but also by what they stood for: a new generation of Europeans, who embrace the opportunities Europe offers, having different cultural backgrounds, speaking different languages and using different instruments, working together, as one team, enchanting the public through the universal language called music. The EUYO perfectly embodies the power of being united in diversity.

The EUYO has become a valuable ambassador of the European Union throughout the years, within but also outside of Europe. The EUYO is capable of reaching places which might still be too complex or too sensitive for European politicians to explore. It creates the conditions for trust and it serves as a reminder that we are all equal before the beauty of music.

I am thus very glad to see a rich programme for the Summer Tour for the European Union Youth Orchestra. I can only invite everyone to attend their concerts: and experience the sound of Europe.

Martin Schulz

President of the European Parliament,
Honorary President of the EUYO

Music has united Europe for centuries, well before the European project was conceived and our European Union was established. For almost forty years the European Union Youth Orchestra has united the young generations of our continent through music. Two decades before the Erasmus programme kicked off, our most talented players were already experiencing the benefits of a borderless space for culture, education and beauty.

This is Europe at its best. It is the Europe of brilliance, a breeding ground for art unrivalled on the global stage. It is the Europe of opportunities, since so many young musicians who grew up in the EU Youth Orchestra have taken up leading roles in some of the world's best ensembles. It is the Europe of merit, where all are judged on their talent and their hard work, and nothing else.

In hard times like the ones we are living, the EUYO sends a powerful message to all the young people of our continent: do not trust those who tell your time will come in a vague or distant future, your time is now. You can contribute to Europe's life, beauty and prosperity, and you can do it starting today.

Federica Mogherini

High Representative of the European Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy and
Vice-President of the European Commission,
Honorary Patron of the EUYO

The European Union Youth Orchestra's summer tour presents young talents with a unique chance to perform in prestigious locations with world renowned artists. This exciting experience will help to stimulate their creativity. It can also generate valuable opportunities for these young musicians' future professional careers.

The Orchestra plays a crucial role in promoting the European Union's core values such as intercultural dialogue, mutual respect and understanding through culture and the arts. The members of this ensemble are ideal ambassadors of these values and represent a compelling example of how Europe can bring people together. The Orchestra's activities – and music in general – can therefore help to strengthen Europe's civic values and to build communities. Today, this is more vital than ever.

I am very proud that the European Commission supports the European Union Youth Orchestra through the Creative Europe Programme. We aim to promote creativity, innovation and social inclusion by developing avenues for cultural exchange, the creation of new jobs and economic growth. Creative Europe, by supporting Culture and the Arts, is instrumental to this.

Music is vital for our well-being and brings happiness to our lives. Let us cherish and preserve it – and enjoy it together.

I sincerely wish the European Union Youth Orchestra every success with its summer tour.

Tibor Navracsics

Culture, Youth and Sport

The EUYO brings together the European Union's most talented young musicians in an orchestra that transcends social, economic, religious and political boundaries, in the common pursuit of musical excellence and cultural understanding. It was founded in 1976 by Joy and Lionel Bryer with founding music director Claudio Abbado, and the then UK Prime Minister, Sir Edward Heath.

The Orchestra recruits from the finest young musicians in all 28 EU Member States in rigorous annual auditions, and has provided an exceptional bridge between music colleges and the professional music world for almost 3,000 alumni since 1976. The EUYO's alumni are now notable conductors, soloists and teachers, as well as musicians from most major orchestras in the world, including amongst others, the London Symphony Orchestra, the Berliner Philharmoniker, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Royal Concertgebouw Orchestra. The EUYO's Summer Home and Principal Venue Partner is Grafenegg, where in 2014 both organisations launched the European Music Campus.

The EUYO has appeared in most major festivals and concert halls around the world. From Abu Dhabi to Amsterdam, New York to Nicosia, Seoul to São Paulo, and Moscow to Mumbai, the EUYO has partnered with some of the greatest names in classical music including Daniel Barenboim, Leonard Bernstein and Herbert von Karajan, and particularly its three notable Music Directors: Claudio Abbado, Bernard Haitink, and Vladimir Ashkenazy. The EUYO recently announced the appointment of Vasily Petrenko as Chief Conductor and Bernard Haitink as Conductor Laureate.

The EUYO's Honorary Patrons include the Heads of Government of all of the EU's Member States, and the President of the European Commission and the President of the European Parliament. Parliament President Martin Schulz is the EUYO's Honorary President. The Orchestra has received continuous support from the EU and its cultural programmes and all the Member States of the EU since its inception, helping it to be able to travel the world as an ambassador for the European Union and its member countries.

The EUYO recently developed an innovatory partnership programme – Towards 2020 – to marry its distinguished tradition with today's challenges. The Towards 2020 project brings together a partnership of nine cultural and commercial organisations from seven EU countries, and thirty associate organisations from Europe and around the globe. The project, co-funded by the EU's Creative Europe cultural funding programme, is establishing a new model to skill talented young orchestral musicians from all EU member states in a manner that responds to the changing needs of 21st century audiences and society.

Initiatives as part of T2020 include apprenticeship schemes, a global exchange programme, the 'Adopt an Orchestra' residency in Thessaloniki, the European Music Campus in Grafenegg, Spazio Klassik in Bolzano, the Urban Remix project in Brussels, a new family of alumni teachers, and help for regional and national youth orchestras in countries including Cyprus, Greece, Malta and Slovakia.

A Tribute to Joy Bryer

Co-founder & President of the European Union Youth Orchestra

Each year, Europe's finest young classical musicians gather together to tour Europe and beyond – the fruit of one woman's dream to exemplify the founding principles of the European Community (later the European Union) – through the collective metaphor of a symphony orchestra.

In 1974, shortly after the United Kingdom joined the European Community, Joy and Lionel Bryer founded the European Community Youth Orchestra. The Orchestra accompanied the evolution of the EEC and was renamed the European Union Youth Orchestra in 1995.

Joy imagined that the Orchestra would present a 'united Europe' – a group of one hundred and twenty musicians from across all Member States, cooperating to produce collective excellence – the European ideal. Joy understood the importance of fostering international dialogue and co-creation amongst Europe's youth.

Joy's work resulted in the founding of the first Italian, Greek and Asian youth orchestras. Her commitment to the education of Europe's finest young musicians, to their scholarship, and to their continued professional development has set her apart from others. She is affectionately known as "Mrs B" by two generations of musicians, and over 3,000 alumni who now feature (for the most part) in the world's most successful symphony orchestras.

Joy Bryer has been commended across Europe for her work in the fields of music and culture. Amongst her accolades, Joy has received the Chevalier des Arts et des Lettres (from the French Government) 1996, the Officier de l'Ordre Grand-Ducal de la Couronne de Chêne (from the Luxembourgish Government) 1997, a medal of honour from President Gil Robles (European Parliament) 1998 and the Comandante della Repubblica Italiana in 2004.

Joy has been recognised all over Europe for her work. Her work, spanning 46 years, has impacted on the lives of thousands of Europe's musicians including: Colin Currie (percussionist), Gautier Capuçon (cellist), Paul Meyer (clarinettist), Anthony Marwood (violinist), Tanja Tetzlaff (cellist), Paul Watkins (cellist), Zsolt-Thamer Visontay (violinist), Leonidas Kavakos (violinist), Renaud Capuçon (violinist), Andrew Manze (violinist), Jacques Zoon (flautist), Sergio Azzolini (bassoonist) and Emily Beynon (flautist).

Wherever Joy goes she takes with her an impassioned belief in the power of a united Europe, investing in Europe's youth. She believes in and advocates for access to culture as a fundamental human right, and lobbies governments and institutions to create the social and economic conditions for this right to be enjoyed by all.

Xian Zhang

Conductor

Known for her “dynamic presence in the pit” (The Guardian), Xian Zhang has served as Music Director of Orchestra Sinfonica di Milano Giuseppe Verdi since September 2009.

In Europe Zhang works at the highest level as a guest conductor, appearing regularly with the London Symphony and Royal Concertgebouw orchestras where she will return in Autumn 2016. Engagements this season have included the Rotterdam Philharmonic Orchestra, Netherlands Radio Philharmonic Orchestra, BBC National Orchestra of Wales at the BBC Proms and Gothenburg Symphony Orchestra.

Zhang continues to work frequently in North America and her engagements this season included New Jersey Symphony, Los Angeles Philharmonic and Ottawa’s National Arts Centre Orchestra. In her native China, she appeared this season with Shanghai Symphony, China Philharmonic and Guangzhou Symphony orchestras.

Described by The Guardian as a “heart-on-sleeve Verdian”, last season Zhang opened the Verdi anniversary season with Francesca Zambello’s production of La forza del destino for Washington National Opera and closed the season in a hugely successful debut for Welsh National Opera conducting Nabucco, both in Cardiff.

Throughout her career Zhang has championed Chinese composers. In May 2008 she completed a six-concert tour of China with the orchestra of the Juilliard School during which Chen Yi’s Ge Xu was performed in Shanghai, Beijing and Suzhou.

Since 2011, Zhang has been Artistic Director of the NJO: Dutch Orchestra and Ensemble Academy. Born in Dandong, China, Xian Zhang made her professional debut conducting Le nozze di Figaro at the Central Opera House in Beijing at the age of 20. She trained at Beijing’s Central Conservatory, earning both her Bachelor and Master of Music degrees, and served one year on its conducting faculty before moving to the United States in 1998. She was appointed the New York Philharmonic’s Assistant Conductor in 2002, subsequently becoming their Associate Conductor and first holder of the Arturo Toscanini Chair.

Gianandrea Nosedà

Conductor

Gianandrea Nosedà is recognised as one of the leading conductors of his generation. His appointment as Music Director of the Teatro Regio Torino in 2007 ushered in a transformative era for the company matched with international acclaim for productions, tours, recording and film projects. Under his leadership the Teatro Regio Torino has launched its first tours outside of Torino with performances in Austria, China, France, Germany, Japan, Russia, the United Kingdom and, with this tour, Canada and the United States. Maestro Nosedà's initiatives have propelled the Teatro Regio Torino onto the global stage where it has become one of Italy's most important cultural exports.

Maestro Nosedà is Principal Guest Conductor of the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra, the Victor De Sabata Guest Conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, Conductor Laureate of the BBC Philharmonic Orchestra and Artistic Director of the Stresa Festival (Italy). In 1997 he was appointed the first foreign Principal Guest Conductor of the Mariinsky Theatre, a position he held for a decade.

Maestro Nosedà is known to New York audiences for his regular appearances at the Metropolitan Opera since 2002 and numerous performances at the Lincoln Center. He has close relationships with many of the leading orchestras and opera houses, including the London Symphony Orchestra, NHK Symphony, Philadelphia Orchestra and Filarmonica della Scala.

A native of Milan, Maestro Nosedà is Cavaliere Ufficiale al Merito della Repubblica Italiana.

Erika Grimaldi

Soprano

Erika Grimaldi is one of the most talented young sopranos in Italy today. Born in Asti she graduated with distinction from the Conservatorio Giuseppe Verdi in Turin in singing and piano. Her first success came at the Crescentino International Competition in Vercelli (Italy) in 1998 and the International Giacomo Lauri-Volpi Competition (Spain).

Recent engagements have included first performances as Maria in Simon Boccanegra in Turin under the direction of Gianandrea Noseda. She was also heard at the Regio this season in her first performances of Mathilde in "Guglielmo Tell" under Noseda's direction and also appeared there as Liu in Turandot. She made her U.S. debut in August 2014 in the "Beethoven Ninth Symphony" with the Mostly Mozart Festival in New York. She opened the 2014/2015 season at the Regio in Torino as Desdemona in Otello and will also appear there as the Countess in Le Nozze di Figaro. In 2015, she will make her U.S. opera debut at the Washington National Opera as Micaela in Carmen and she will appear as Mimi in "La Boheme" at the Teatro Petruzzelli in Bari. She joined Jonas Kaufmann in a scene from "Il Trovatore" on the tenor's recent all-Verdi CD for SONY CLASSICAL.

Alisa Weilerstein

Cello

"A young cellist whose emotionally resonant performances of both traditional and contemporary music have earned her international recognition... Weilerstein is a consummate performer, combining technical precision with impassioned musicianship," stated the MacArthur Foundation, when awarding American cellist Alisa Weilerstein a 2011 MacArthur Fellowship. An exclusive recording artist for Decca Classics, Alisa was the first cellist to be signed by the label for over 20 years.

Her debut recording of the Elgar and Elliott Carter cello concertos with Daniel Barenboim and the Staatskapelle Berlin was named BBC Music magazine's "Recording of the Year 2013." Weilerstein's second Decca release, featuring Dvorák's Cello Concerto, revealed a "take-no-prisoners emotional investment that is evident in every bar" (New York Times). In 2010, she was invited by Daniel Barenboim and the Berlin Philharmonic to play the Elgar concerto in the orchestra's annual Europakonzert which took place in Oxford's Sheldonian Theatre. She has appeared with all of the major orchestras throughout the United States and Europe.

Alisa's busy European 2015-16 schedule sees return visits to the Czech Philharmonic, BBC Scottish Symphony, Orchestre de Paris and City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra. She will also appear with, amongst others, the Bayerischer Rundfunk Munich, Orchestre de la Suisse Romande, Royal Liverpool Philharmonic, Maggio Musicale Fiorentino, London Symphony Orchestra and WDR Cologne.

Alisa is an ardent champion of new music and last season she gave the New York premiere of Matthias Pintscher's Reflections on Narcissus under the composer's direction during the New York Philharmonic's inaugural Biennial. In the 15-16 season she will premiere concertos by Pascal Dusapin and Matthias Pintscher in North America and Europe. Weilerstein is a graduate of the Cleveland Institute of Music and Columbia University. Diagnosed with type 1 diabetes aged 9, she is now a Celebrity Advocate for the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation.

Towards 2020: Skilling Musicians & Engaging Audiences in Europe's Orchestral Sector

The European Union Youth Orchestra is the Lead Partner in the 9 Partner project: Towards 2020: Skilling Musicians & Engaging Audiences in Europe's Orchestral Sector, alongside National Associates in all 28 EU Member States.

T2020 is establishing a new model to skill talented young orchestral musicians from all EU Member States in a manner that responds to the changing needs of 21st century audiences and society. The Project uses innovatory training, performance, digital and audience models, to give cultural development, career opportunities and audience development strategies that can be used by many different cultural and creative sectors.

T2020's aims can be divided into 5 areas: culture, young musicians, audiences, events and society, and within this, each Partner plays a key role:

Culture Action Europe

– the development of a methodology to measure the impact of T2020.

John Good Group

– the creation of the new T2020 website with specially designed areas for young musicians and all T2020 collaborators to share work, discuss topics, and exchange and communicate.

Grafenegg

– launching and developing the European Music Campus (emc), a campus to enable young players from across Europe to come together in an exploratory and inquisitive musical environment – learning alongside EUYO alumni and current players.

Concorso Ferruccio Busoni

– the creation of 'Spazio Klassik' – a new outdoor performance space to encourage and entice people who have no prior contact with classical music into a new relationship with EUYO players and their music.

Thessaloniki Concert Halls

– developing REACT: a training project to help young unemployed people of Thessaloniki gain new skills in the associated areas of performing arts, as part of 'Adopt an Orchestra' – showing how an orchestra can embed itself within a new community and extend its reach by creating a variety of activities. This has included the creation of the new 'Megaro Youth Symphony Orchestra'.

Bozar

– creating a relationship between young Belgian EUYO musicians and EUYO musicians studying in Brussels and the surrounding area, in which the young musicians are performing at the Bozar, exploring the relationship between the young musicians of a large developed urban city and a typical multi genre major urban arts centre.

Music Center Slovakia

– helping develop the capabilities and career development of young Slovakian players and the development of a new National Youth Orchestra of Slovakia.

Cyprus Symphony Orchestra Foundation

– curating opportunities for European and Euro-Arab musicians to come together, building plans for a partnership project in future years to include working with the Cyprus Youth Symphony Orchestra.

Co-funded by the Creative Europe Program
of the European Union

The Global Exchange Programme

In Salvador Bahia, Brazil, a variety of young EUYO musicians watch virtuosic young Brazilian percussionists combine Samba and classical instruments. The next day these same European musicians are teaching their Brazilian peers in preparation for a concert with Maxim Vengerov. In Miami USA, Dutch and Danish violinists perform in a concert led by Leonard Bernstein's daughter Janie Bernstein at Frank Gehry and Michael Tilson Thomas' state of the art New World Center, and in classes learn how young US musicians are taught to relate not just to music but also to the audience and to sponsors. In Detroit USA, two EUYO musicians are the only white players in an otherwise all black and Hispanic orchestra that is part of the Sphinx Programme dedicated to opening up classical music to diverse young performers. In return young musicians from all of these non-European programmes are in Europe getting to know what the EUYO is.

These are brief glimpses into Towards 2020's new Global Exchange Programme, a pioneering initiative giving Europe's talented players the opportunity to travel to places outside of Europe and see exceptional young musician programmes. The players have the possibility to work in a variety of inspiring cultures and contexts, and in return, opportunities are found for selected musicians from the non-European projects to visit the EUYO, and to see the EU's Youth Orchestra at work. In this way the Programme allows European players to learn from exceptional work globally and for us to communicate our work in the EU to far away societies. We build friendships, we learn, and we show the rest of the world what the EU achieves by bringing together talented musicians from 28 Member States.

"To be able to visit as many different institutions and artistic concepts as possible widens one's artistic horizon. I returned from Miami with a new perspective on how to develop new concepts for classical music diffusion."

Amalie Kjaeldgaard

Danish, Violinist, exchange with Miami

"This extraordinary opportunity opened my eyes, and made me want to explore more through the world of music. It was a great experience to see the NEOJIBA project for real. The whole system is very engaged, and it feels like they are one big family, in which they really included us."

Sebastian Molenaar

Dutch, Percussionist, exchange with Brazil

The Budapest Festival Orchestra Partnership

World's Top 10 orchestra selects four of Europe's finest to participate in year II of its Apprenticeship Scheme

2014 saw the launch of a partnership initiative between the Budapest Festival Orchestra and the European Union Youth Orchestra. In May last year, Nina Ashton (British, bassoon) Andrei Mihailescu (Romanian, double bass) and Cillian O'Ceallachain (Irish, trombone) were chosen to work with Budapest Festival Orchestra Music Director and conductor Iván Fischer. Considered one of the ten best orchestras in the world, the Budapest Festival Orchestra is a success story of Hungary's musical life.

"I feel very privileged to have worked with the Budapest Festival Orchestra and Iván Fischer during the past season. It has been one of the most rewarding musical experiences of my career. Everyone I met was really welcoming and was more than happy to give advice and encouragement along the way. The Budapest Festival Orchestra is the perfect platform for this scheme. The Orchestra's desire to continually improve itself is truly inspiring. This has been a wonderful year and a great stepping-stone in the transition from the student world into professional life. It is an orchestra like no other in the world and the musicians from the EUYO are incredibly lucky to have this opportunity."

– Cillian O'Ceallachain

The European Union Youth Orchestra is committed to creating opportunities for paid employment for Europe's finest musicians. This unique partnership is one step towards the provision of a more extensive international apprenticeship and exchange programme in the orchestral sector, dedicated to fostering young instrumental talent and providing a genuine platform for professional placement.

"It has been a great pleasure and honour to be able to work in the Budapest Festival Orchestra over the past season. I've had the opportunity to learn some fantastic music, including some of the highlights of the orchestral repertoire as well as several chamber pieces as part of the 'Stravinsky marathon' in February. I love the freshness of the Orchestra's approach, their enthusiasm and humour, and I felt very welcomed."

– Nina Ashton

The innovative scheme enables EUYO members to join the Budapest Festival Orchestra for up to 10–12 weeks' work during the BFO's season. The EUYO players are paid as normal members of the BFO, with travel and accommodation costs also covered, and, as last year, will gain invaluable professional experience working with one of the world's top orchestras, during one season.

We are delighted to announce that this year, Iván Fischer has chosen Victor Koch Jensen (Danish, trumpet), Emily Davis (British, violin), Ulf Breuer (German, percussion), and Samuel García García (Spanish, violin) as the BFO's EUYO Apprentices.

Awards

Each season the European Union Youth Orchestra gives four or more players one of its Awards, which reward a variety of skills ranging from musicianship to the creation of an atmosphere of harmony and understanding.

If you would like to sponsor an Award, create an Award in memory of someone who shared the Orchestra's values, or know of a Corporation that would be honoured to put their organisation's name to an Award, please do not hesitate to get in touch with our Development & Communications Manager, Charlotte Saldanha at charlotte@euyo.eu or by telephone: +44 79668 88917

We are delighted to announce a new award for 2016:

The Ian Stoutzker Award

Generously offered by the Orchestra's Co-Chairman and Orchestra Board Chairman Ian Stoutzker, CBE, this will provide one or more musicians with an award for performance excellence. As a young man Ian trained at the Royal College of Music under Albert Sammons, before eventually choosing a new path at the London School of Economics. It has been said of Ian Stoutzker, 'Perhaps no musician has ever done so much for music after choosing a new career.' The Orchestra is delighted to benefit from his generous commitment to its future and remarkable guidance.

The Chairman's Award

The Orchestra's former Chairman Robert Albert, until his very recent retirement, generously bestowed an annual award to a member (or members) of the Orchestra who, in the opinion of the management, contributed most towards the creation of an atmosphere of harmony and understanding whilst on summer tour, so that the ideal of the EUYO – the bringing together of musically talented youth from the different nations, religions, cultures and traditions of the European Union to form an orchestra of world-class standard – are realised.

The award for the 2014 – 2015 season was given to our Dutch violinist, Inge Bergenhuizen and our German percussionist, Ulf Breuer.

Inge Bergenhuizen

 Dutch, Violin

Recipient of the
Chairman's Award

"This orchestra demonstrates how it is actually possible for all the different nationalities to join in one orchestra and work as one, with an overpowering amount of positive energy. The Award helped me to pay the college tuition for my last year of Masters studies in Amsterdam, I am happy to set an example for future EUYO-members. The distinct EUYO-energy is what makes the EUYO special and I hope we can be an inspiration for the rest of Europe and even for the world." – Inge

Ulf Breuer

 German, Percussion

Recipient of the
Chairman's Award

"I gave the money I received for this award to another musician in the orchestra. I believe this musician would benefit significantly more than me from this financial gift. He had been struggling with his instrument in a way that would have prevented him from developing as a player. So, I hope through my action, I may have helped in some way towards giving him the chance to help himself out of this situation. I hope the end result will have changed his musical future definitively." – Ulf

The Aleksandar Pavlović Award

Set up in 2008 with a generous donation from the Orchestra's Co-founders Lionel and Joy Bryer, the award is a tribute to Aleksandar Pavlović, the long-standing and former Artistic Director of the International Youth Foundation and violin tutor to the European Union Youth Orchestra. He is Professor Emeritus at the Faculty of Music, University of Arts in Belgrade and Visiting Professor at the Royal Academy of Music in London. He has also led master classes in the USA, Greece and the UK.

Emily Davis

 British, Violin

Recipient of the
Pavlović Award

The Aleksandar Pavlović Award was presented at the end of the 2014 Summer Tour to Emily Davis. Emily, from the United Kingdom has been a long-standing member of the Orchestra and gained a first class honours degree from the Royal Academy of Music where she studied with Mateja Marinkovic on a scholarship place.

The award is presented annually to the violinist in the Orchestra with the most talent and potential.

"The award money will go towards the purchase of my own new bow, a very special thing that is as important as the violin itself, which I have needed for many years. I recently accepted a position at the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra, and having the best equipment to play with is vital to establishing my career there." – Emily

The Lionel Bryer Memorial Fund Award

Created in 2011, the Lionel Bryer Memorial Fund Award, is designed to support a young musician who has demonstrated huge musical talent and potential, but whose development and career would benefit greatly from financial assistance.

Lionel Bryer was a highly successful London dental surgeon who, inspired by a love of music and the desire to foster good relations with other countries by educating young people in their cultures, co-founded the International Youth Foundation along with his wife, Joy. Through it they also co-founded the Aberdeen International Youth Festival and the European Community Youth Orchestra (now the European Union Youth Orchestra). Originally from South Africa, Lionel was a talented violinist and sportsman, as well as a Rhodes Scholar.

The award is presented annually.

In summer 2014, the award went to our Romanian viola player, Sorin-Vlad Spasinovici and Soteris Chrysostomou, our Cypriot trombonist.

Sorin-Vlad Spasinovici

 Romanian, Viola

Co-recipient of the
Lionel Bryer Award

"The Lionel Bryer Award has brought me, besides the immense honour and joy of being its joint recipient, the chance of buying myself a new bow, which helps tremendously in my development as a musician. The moment when this award was given to me really couldn't have been more opportune, as I had just managed to buy myself a new viola, after many years during which I couldn't afford to buy a better viola than the one I had bought when I was in high-school. By saving as much money as possible from the earnings that I had in the past couple of years, and with some financial help from my parents, I got my new viola one week before the start of the Summer Tour 2014. Therefore, a new viola would have also required a new bow, a better one, which I wouldn't have been able to buy so soon, but thanks to EUYO and the great surprise of offering me this distinction, I will benefit from the help of this new bow in my future career – in my auditions, recitals, exams and, of course, all the performances with the EUYO." – Sorin

Soteris Chrysostomou

 Cypriot, Trombone

Co-recipient of the
Lionel Bryer Award

"I have been a member of the Orchestra since 2012. Since then, I have noticed a remarkable evolution in my playing, me as a musician and as an individual. I attribute this positive development to being involved in the EUYO – an orchestra unlike any other. I feel very privileged to receive tuition from some of the world's finest. But, I have also learnt so much from my fellow musicians. It was an honour to receive the Lionel Bryer Memorial Fund Award. I have used it to invest in my continued musical development, repairing my instrument and to further my studies." – Soteris

Support

The European Union Youth Orchestra is the EU's only pan-European Orchestra specifically targeting Europe's future leaders in classical music from all 28 EU Member States.

You may well be on this page because something we do has touched you. This is your chance to invest in Europe's young talent, enabling a 40-year old project to grow, to develop and to increase its impact on the many cultures and communities of Europe and beyond.

(Main picture) 2014 – Leonidas Kavakos, acclaimed international solo violinist and conductor, exclusive Decca Classics recording artist.

What we do. And how you can help.

Our remit is vast – and with this exciting challenge comes expenses.

To do what we do costs on average € 15,000 per young musician, each year.

We've touched the lives of many, with more than 3,000 alumni, plus – on an annual basis – an orchestra of 120, 10 Leverhulme Summer School attendees, a European Music Campus Orchestra of 40, several hundred annual 'Encourage' musicians', youth orchestras throughout the EU that we are helping and teaching at, and a new alumni teaching programme. And that's just some of what we do!

As a youth orchestra we never access the concert fees reserved for professional orchestras. Touring for months on end, with over 100 of Europe's finest young musicians presents a financial challenge – full houses still won't cover our core costs.

If you would like to support us, you can send your donation to: Charlotte Saldanha, The European Union Youth Orchestra, 6A Pont Street, London SW1X 9EL, UK. Cheques should be made payable to the 'EUYO'.

Our bank details are as follows:

Account name: European Union Youth Orchestra

Individual donations

Individual donations, no matter the size, all contribute to sustaining the European Union Youth Orchestra's ambitious artistic programme and touring schedule. The pennies / cents all add up.

Corporate Partners

Corporate Partners, we are most definitely not an orchestra looking for more logos to put in our brochures! We are, however, always looking for corporate partners who are interested in beginning a creative and innovative relationship with us.

Trusts and Foundations

The support of Trusts and Foundations of all sizes is critical to the success of so much of our work. Trusts and Foundations have generously supported our musicians, providing tuition support and travel and accommodation costs.

If you would like to discuss ways to partner with the EUYO, or make another form of donation, we would be delighted to hear from you.

Please feel free to contact our Development and Communications Manager, Charlotte Saldanha at charlotte@euyo.eu or by phone: +44 20 3370 5462.

Take that step today, and help us to continue our work by investing in the European Union Youth Orchestra's young musicians now.

The Celesta

Everyone knows its 'heavenly' sound but few really know the instrument. The celesta was invented by Victor Mustel in Paris in the year 1886. Tchaikovsky, fascinated by the unique overtone-rich sound, wrote the famous celesta solo for the Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy in his Nutcracker. The world premiere of the Nutcracker at the Mariinsky Theatre in St. Petersburg in 1892 led to the international breakthrough of the instrument. The 'heavenly' sound of the celesta has enchanted the entire world of music ever since and the instrument became a fixture of orchestral music.

The celesta combines elements of a keyboard and a percussion instrument in a very specific way. Its distinct sound is generated by the following mechanical action principles:

- > The felt hammer is set in motion by pressing the key.
- > The felt hammer strikes the steel sound plate from above.
- > The sound plate is placed above a wooden resonator.

Only the celesta action can produce the typical celesta sound. In his patent Victor Mustel explicitly excludes the use of a piano or grand-piano action as sound-generating system of the celesta.

Since the Mustel company stopped their celesta production decades ago, the German company Schiedmayer is the only manufacturer of the celesta worldwide. Schiedmayer has a tradition in building keyboard instruments for almost 300 years and started with the celesta production as early as 1890. The Schiedmayer celesta manufacture is located today in Wendlingen near Stuttgart in southern Germany.

For almost forty years the EUYO has united the most talented young musicians from the EU's member states in an orchestra that transcends social, economic and political boundaries in pursuit of the highest levels of orchestral playing, artistic excellence and cultural understanding, aiming, in the process, to provide an example for Europe.

We thank the President of the European Commission, the Commission's Creative Europe programme, the President of the European Parliament and the High Representative of the Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy, as well as the Heads of State, Prime Ministers and Ministers of Culture of all 28 EU Member States, without whom our performances would not be possible.
